

Report

Theme	Kyoto University International Symposium: Towards the Simultaneous Pursuit of Conservation of Primates and Sustainable Development of Local Communities
Date	From: August 25, 2019 Until: August 27, 2019 (3 Days)
Organizing faculty/department	Primate Research Institute
Cooperating faculty/department(s)	Graduate School of Asian and African Area Studies
Place	Country	Ethiopia
	City	Addis Ababa
	Venue	Addis Ababa University
Co-organizers	Dr. Belay Gruja, Associate Professor, Addis Ababa University
Symposium summary	The symposium focused on three main themes relating to African primates: biological study, conservation, and sustainable development of local communities. Members of the African Primatological Consortium for Conservation (APCC), Graduate School of Asian and African Area Studies, and collaborating researchers gave presentations on their research and conservation activities, and fruitful discussions were held on the organizational strengthening of the APCC and related fund raising. The opening ceremony for the Kyoto University African Office at Addis Ababa University was held during the symposium, as well as a joint panel session with the attendees of the Kyoto University-University of Bordeaux strategic meeting for research cooperation.
Total number of participants (including audience)	36	